DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 2/15/2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Applicant argued that the present invention is "directed towards dividing file into plurality of components files and, when a download sequence is interrupted, restarting the download with the piece affected by the interruption". Applicant further argued that the combination of Kauffman and Averbuch would result in "a method for downloading a file, in which the file is divided into a plurality of piece files ..., when transfer of one of the piece files is interrupted, the number of blocks remaining is used to restart the transfer of the piece file."

Art Unit: 2153

The examiner failed to see how this reading of the combination is distinguished from the claimed invention. Clearly, even as argued by Applicant, the combination teaches dividing a file into piece files, restarting download of the piece file that was interrupted, and combining the piece files after downloading to reconstruct the file. There is no rationale in Kauffman or Averbuch to support applicant argument that the combination would result in Kauffman restarting the download by transferring every piece files including the one already downloaded.

As per the argument concerning the Pyne reference, the argument is not persuasive because Pyne clearly teaches dividing file into "blocks" and providing a reference key (CRC) for each block [see for example Pyne's claim 1 step a)].

Conclusion

All pending claims are rejected as stated in the prior office action (paper #16).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
